

Light The Way Home

Words and Music © 1986 by Jamie McElman,
Mountain Rise Music, All Rights Reserved

Sitting today
While the time, like sand, hastens away
An' me, I'm so far away
From my homeland.

But I haven't lost heart
And I've not forgotten, no
And this soft music's taking me back
Eyes closed, I'm bridging the gap.

'Wish my words could free me as I sing this song
I'd open up my eyes again and find I'm home
I'd tell the world I love you
With you I belong
And it's ringing in the canyons
Let the truth be known.

That I belong there
How could I ever go away?
Open up your heart and your soul, Colorado
And light the way home.

A time came when I wondered, what do I believe?
And my questions sent me wondering from the fold
And the madness I encountered left such clarity
That once again I feel the calling of the road.

An' I belong there
How could I ever go away?
Open up your heart and your soul, Colorado
And light the way home.

I could be standing on a ridge above the timberline
About the time the morning sun chases the cold
And feel the spirit of the mountains, and my own, entwined
And I'd wrap this land around me 'til I'm old.

Yeah, I belong there
I've done my time out on the edge
Open up your heart and your soul, Colorado
And light the way home.

If you could see me today
Would you see the restless child
Full of dreams and plans?
Or would you see the hungry man
Who only wants to come home?

Light the way.