

This Chance

Words and Music © 1991 by Jamie McElman,
Mountain Rise Music, All Rights Reserved

Things don't always work out
The way we've planned
Sometimes harsh words and egos
Send us spinning out of hand
Don't assume that there's time
Don't you let her slip by
Tell her now while you can
Take her up to the sky
'Cause you'll never have this chance again.

I soon tire of telling you, my friend
Of the two roads, one's for losers
And your choice lies up ahead
Don't stop dead in your tracks
As I said, there's no time
Take a look at the facts
She's the one on your mind
'Cause this chance comes once, that's it, my friend.

Wandering 'round in the dark
Yeah, you've been there before
And boy, will you be surprised
When love spills out like warm light
Through an open door
Hey, it'll open your eyes
You'll cast off your fears
Yeah, you'll dance in the light
And toss away all those years you believed
That this chance
Was somewhere beyond your sight.

Rest assured that in time you'll understand
Change has its own reason
And it's beyond your command
But you an fight for today
You can search for the truth
Trust in love anyway
Never halt the pursuit
And pray to God that this chance comes 'round again.