

An Amber Sky

Words and Music © 2013 by Jamie McElman,
Mountain Rise Music, BMI, All Rights Reserved

The rain was falling as we said goodbye
She's bound for Dallas on a morning flight
With the sun still rising in the sky.
She's a restless beauty, she's a friend of mine
Caution tells me not to cross that line
Still she makes me wonder if I should try.

Out of nowhere she's a flash of light
Like a sunrise she's a fleeting sight
Leaving streaks of color as she flies.
She's a kindred spirit, she's a nice surprise
There's laughter and a hint of crazy in her eyes
This is the canvas of an Amber sky.

Who is she really, I may never know
But to the writer that's the way it goes
Put the pen to paper, and let her go
Yeah, just put the pen to paper
And let her go.