

Camino

Your eyes, they shone like the sun
So in love you were with being in love
And there's nothing we couldn't have done
Together we had more than enough
This was our time
This was our moment to shine.

We wrote the rules on the fly
Defying those who'd stand in our way
And we danced in these moments of joy
As the seconds of the song ticked away
You'd soon turn to go
Back on the Camino.

~Chorus~

If our lives have been designed
Without beginning or end
If all our tales are intertwined
And written by the same hand
The Camino is endless, my friend
You're just tilting at windmills, again.

Two souls, they met on the road
Together they would travel a while
Wanting only to see where it goes
Until their steps would not reconcile
In time the way clears
Each breath that much further from here.

~Chorus~

If our lives have been designed
Without beginning or end
If all our tales are intertwined
And written by the same hand
The Camino, it calls you again
I want everything for you, my friend.

One bridged the gap, one took the chance
One opened up, one joined the dance
One chose to stay, one chose to go
One walked away, one didn't follow.
