

Hey, America

Words and Music © 2008, 2017 by Jamie McElman,
Mountain Rise Music, BMI, All Rights Reserved

Welcome folks to the exhibition
Wouldn't want you to miss the show
See the fools spouting their positions
Politicians all in a row.

~Chorus~

Hey, America
You've been sleeping for too long
And this nightmare lingers on
Hey, America
Throw the curtains open wide
Now's the time you must decide.

Tickets please for the inquisition
Place your bets how many heads will roll
Can't you smell the decomposition?
Kick the bodies into the hole.

Hey, America
You woke up in a sweat
The nightmare isn't over yet
Hey, America
Open up your eyes
There is danger on the rise.

~Bridge~

Now's your time to shine
Stand and throw off this malaise
There isn't any time to waste
Now's your curtain call
Lay your conscience on the line
Only you can turn the tide (2x)
Please say you'll turn the tide.

Genuflect for the new patrician
Sitting naked in his gilded hall
The mad king and his grand tradition
All dissenters against the wall.

Hey, America
You're not dreaming any more
Someone's pounding on your door
Hey, America
We must throw these fools aside
Let us close the great divide.