

Hickory Bridge

You blew out a front tire
And made your way to the side of the road
Running from a wildfire
Carrying all that Chevy'll hold
You lightened your load
Now all you need is somewhere to go
You're a long way from home.

The smoke came at midnight
With a fiery sky and a roar from over the ridge
Now it's in your tail lights
You talk to yourself as you roll across Hickory Bridge
Look what some fucker did
Burn it down instead of live and let live
Pretty hard to forgive.

Cast into shadow
And doubt
Is there something you can't live without?
Life ain't possessions.
Drive 'til tomorrow
Head south
Let the highway figure it out
And remind you your blessings.

Days of silence
Absently making your way, and staring in space
Seeking guidance
To help you let go of the things that can't be replaced
It's high time you create
Turn the key and accelerate
'Cause your joy – it can't wait.

This is the essence of faith
When you believe what it is that you say
You decode the message
Find your expression
And then
When you take to the highway again
You'll carry the lesson (2x).
