

Time and Gravity

Don't overthink it
I've pretty much figured out
Life is just physics, there ain't no doubt
Mass and momentum
Friction and energy
Nothing fades or comes to be.

The colors of sunrise
Just wavelengths and frequencies
Photons flying at light speed
And the warmth of that sunlight
Yeah, that's nuclear fusion, son
Still running hot when day is done.

~Bridge~

Physics don't care about religion
Or your culture or your pigment
I'm talking Big Bang, people
I'm talking infinity
Do you think the Universe really cares who you love?

~Chorus~

Nothing but time and gravity holding me
Elements rearrange
Matter and energy just exchange
Nothing but time and gravity holding me
An' less of one every day
Until my soul just shines and floats away.

This is your journey
Yeah, your dance with eternity
An' it ain't by chance you've come to be
Just a speck on a planet
Near a star in some galaxy
An' at this moment, here with me.

~Bridge~

~Chorus~
