

You Decide

The compass spins around
As you fall from the sky
It seems you've lost your faith in the truth
And your life flashes by.

While you ignore the facts
The ground is reaching up fast
The instruments don't lie
Act now, before you crash.
You decide (2x)

So you found yourself in line
For the American Dream
Did you know you'd sacrifice your freedom
When you grabbed that brass ring?

Consequences multiply
When you're living a lie
You can't follow your north star
If you can't see the sky.
You decide (2x)

You want to navigate life by the stars
You're always scrolling for feedback on who you are You're still denying the guidance that's sleeping within Turn it on, and tune it in
And enjoy the ride again.

Are you living, or just waiting – you decide
Are you joyful and creating – you decide
Are you choosing your reaction – you decide
Are you taking fearless action – you decide

Are you present in the moment – you decide
Are you deferring your enjoyment – you decide
Are you improving your perspective – you decide
Are you aware we're all connected – you decide

Are you stating your intention – you decide
Are you speaking with affection – you decide
Have I captured your attention – you decide.
