

Tumble Down

Words and Music © 1982 by Jamie McElman,
Mountain Rise Music, All Rights Reserved

Tumble down, down through the time
Slipping away, and breaking apart
Well, so much has been said
Yet the path up ahead
Is as dark as it was from the start

Well, whatever it is that you see
In reflections ago, as you knew life to be
Is there anything left of the past that you need?
Come and see.

Tumble down, girl of the wind
No idea where you're going
Barely know where you've been
But I recall forces, gently controlled
Wind and sand, is the past
And the future's untold

Well, whatever it is that you need
Lies in shadows ago, 'least I hope that you'd agree
And these strings may be broken, but their meaning still can sing
Hear them ring.

Tumble down, could we start this again?
See, I know that what you hold is dear
So I'll not fall to asking when
But life's been good to you
And I hope 'fore too long
You'll see a home lies waiting
At the end of this song

Well, whenever it is that you agree
If it happens at all
Yeah, the future's hard to see
But if there's anything left of the past that you need
Come and see.