

Space for You

I held space for you
Long after the moon went down
The sky was full of stars.
I held space for you
Walking home through the trees
In the morning light.

Images I carry now
Only reruns
Trinkets gathered on the way
To sometimes hold up to the light.

I held space for you
And the songs we used to sing
Remember when you used to sing.
I held space for you
Despite the many years apart
And you sold your guitar.

Did your muse just walk away
And leave you lonely
Or did you sacrifice your art
Because you'd nothing left to say?

I held space for you
Although I never knew your name
And we never spoke a word
I held space for you
'Cause when you'd look at me and smile
Well, you felt it too.

People come, some wander off
It's all been scripted
Large or small, we play our part
We're all connected.

I held space for you
After all these people left
And the flowers died.
I held space for you
I will always hear your voice
I never got to say goodbye.

I won't fear the siren's call
When it's time to follow
One last step, a final breath
Until we meet another day.

I held space for you
Although I don't know why
I don't like who you've become.
